

JOURNAL OF ROMAN ARCHAEOLOGY
SUPPLEMENTARY SERIES no. 66

ROMAN BY INTEGRATION: DIMENSIONS OF GROUP IDENTITY IN MATERIAL CULTURE AND TEXT

edited by
Roman Roth and Johannes Keller

with contributions by

E. Flaig, A. Gardner, E. Herring, J. Keller,
M. J. Millett, R. Pfeilschifter, and R. E. Roth

PORTSMOUTH, RHODE ISLAND
2007

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface and Acknowledgements	6
1. Introduction: Roman culture between homogeneity and integration Roman Roth	7
2. Identity crises in SE Italy in the 4th c. B.C.: Greek and native perceptions of the threat to their cultural identities Edward Herring	11
3. The allies in the Republican army and the Romanisation of Italy Rene Pfeilschifter	27
4. Rome and her Italian allies: conflicting interests and disintegration Johannes Keller	43
5. Ceramic integration? Typologies and the perception of identities in Republican Italy Roman Roth	59
6. Urban topography and social identity in the Tiber Valley Martin Millett	71
7. Roman gladiatorial games: ritual and political consensus Egon Flaig	83
8. The social identities of soldiers: boundaries and connections in the later Roman world Andrew Gardner	93

Cloth, 7 x 10 inch, 103 pages, 10 illustrations. ISBN-13: 978-1-887829-66-3. List $47.50.